

IN THE CLAIMS

Claims 1-4 (Cancelled)

Claim 5 (New) A radiator with a securing device, comprising:

a radiator, providing a base with a plurality of cooling fins on and the base contact a plurality of cooling pipes, which penetrating the cooling fins transversely;

a locating part, locating the radiator; and a base plate with a heat generating unit, providing a plurality of engaging holes for engaging with the locating part and the heat generating unit being fixedly attached to the base; characterized in that the locating part is flat to be disposed under the radiator and has an opening with a shape corresponding to the base and extends outward a plurality of elastic secure arms radially with a fixing hole at the outer end of each of the secure arm corresponding to the engaging holes.